Then, with your partner act out a cookery show using the following ingredients to make your own recipe. One of you has to do the actions and the other has to narrate - giving the instructions.

Activity Five: If you are in a group, vote for the best recipe from the ones people showed to the class. Then share another recipe which you like to cook at home.

Explain what the ingredients are and what the different steps are to make your recipe.

Activity Six: Ordering food in a restaurant.

Sometimes when we order food we want to ask some specific questions about how the food is served. Sometimes it's more simple and we just order off the menu. Sometimes we have special requests.

On the next page you will find an example dialogue, read it out and then with your partner invent your own similar dialogue with different food ingredients. Practice your dialogue together.

Waiter: Hello, here are your menus. I'll be back to take your order in a few minutes.

Waiter: Are you ready to order?

John: Yes, please.

Waiter: Would you like a starter?

John: Yes, I'd like a vegetable soup.

Waiter: And what would you like for a main course?

John: I'll have the grilled fish.

Waiter: Would you like anything to drink?

John: Yes, I'd like a glass of red wine, please.

Waiter: (After John has his meal) Can I bring you anything else?

John: May I see the dessert menu?

Waiter: Certainly.

John: What do you recommend?

Waiter: The chocolate cake. It's delicious.

John: Okay, I'll have the cake. Also, may I have the bill please?

Waiter: Certainly

Activity Eight: Role Plays. Act out the following restaurant role plays.

1. You are ordering from a menu but you have so many different requests for how you want the food served, that the waiter gets impatient with you.
2. You are in a restaurant but you are a very fussy eater! Eventually you say you will just have bread because there is nothing you want.
3. You are ordering food in a restaurant but you have a lot of different allergies!

Here is some more vocabulary to help you:
